IN JEFFERSON'S MEMORY.

Hon. William J. Bryan, Senator Geo. F. Hoar, of Massachusetts; Governor A. J. Montague, of Virginia, and ex-Postmaster-General Charles Emory Smith, of Philadelphia, were the principal speakers at a dinner given at the Hotel Barton, Washington, last night, under the auspices of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Association in celebration of the one hundred and sixtieth anniversary of the birth of the author of the Declaration of Independence. About 140 guests were present.

A feature of the musical programme was the playing of a march by Leader Santelmann, of the Marine Band, entitled "Thomas Jefferson March." H. B. F. Macfarland, president of the District Commissioners, presided and Thos. Nelson Page was toastmaster. The dinner was not of a political character. Senator Hoar responded to the toast "The Author of the Declaration of Independence."

Ex-Postmaster-General Smith responded to "The Louisiana Purchase."

Mr. Bryan, who was the last speaker on the programme addressed himself to "The Statute for Religious Freedom."

He concluded as follows: "To Jefferson the doctrine of free speech and freedom of opinion applied to everything because he rightly understood that no censorship of opinion could be permitted that would not be more dangerous to truth than to error, for those who are conscious of the righteousness of their cause are not apt to invoke force in defense of their opinions as those who are conscious of error and who, recognizing their inability to defend their views by reason, fall back upon coercion. In the preamble of the act of 1786, it is stated, first, that the propagation of religion by force is contrary to the plan of God, the author of our religion. Attention is called to the fact that the Almighty, 'being Lord both of the body and the mind, yet chose not to propagate it by coercive means. Jefferson recognized that the Christian religion rested upon love, and that love is the very antithesis of violence and brute force. It is well to remember that the Declaration of Independence itself rests upon the same foundation which supports our religion; namely, love, and those who deny the doctrine of human brotherhood are not apt to respect the creed of inalienable rights and natural equality embodied in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. Jefferson was the greatest statesman known to history. He believed in the rights of people, and had a heart large enough to take in all human kind. He hated tyranny, whether it manifested itself in religious or secular affairs, and applied his doctrines to all questions."

Gov. Montague, after outlining the life of Thomas Jefferson, said: "Thomas Jefferson believed profoundly in education. He has been accused of entertaining strange beliefs as to religion, but every evidence points to the fact that he was not an irreligious man. Nothing in the history of American life is more beautiful than his devotion to his wife and children. We find him, a young man, refusing a mission to France because of his wife's poor health, and in her last days he was her tender and tireless nurse. Jefferson rendered his State exalted service in the Virginia constitutional convention, and after he had written the Declaration of Independence, he returned to the House of Delegates and there rendered incalculable service in the cause of free politics, a free press, a free people, and free religion. The crowning triumph of Jefferson's life, however, was the University of Virginia, which he built and fostered, guarding it as a father might a child."

The other speakers were: Andrew A. Lipcomb, "The Thomas Jefferson Memorial Association;" President Henry Needham, of Columbian University, "Jefferson as a Promoter of General Education;" and Rev. D. J. Stafford, "Jefferson and Human Rights."

A letter of regret was read from Admiral Dewey, who is president of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Association.

Prior to the banquet the board of governors met and practically decided that the proposed memorial to Jefferson to be erected in Washington shall take the form of a building.

PRESS BANQUET.
One hundred representative members of the democratic press of New York sat down last night in Albany at the banquet of the State Democratic Editorial Association in celebration of the birthday of Thomas Jefferson.

Ex-Senator David B. Hill spoke on "The Empire State Democracy." He attacked the policies of the present republican administration in New York State especially assailing the various measures adopted to secure the abolition of direct taxation for State purposes. These he characterized as measures designed to cover up a deficit in the State treasury, to which, he said, he had himself called attention last year. The excise increase law Mr. Hill denounced as legislation designed to punish large democratic cities, especially New York. The policies of President Roosevelt were ridiculed by Mr. Hill as vacillating and unduly tender of the great monopolies, and said the whole republican administration was clamoring for delay in dealing with the trust question. His final plea was for democratic harmony, which, he declared, would assure victory for the party.

Daniel E. Friebe, of Schenar, former democratic leader in the assembly and president of the association, presided. Speeches were also made by Andrew McLean on "The Day We Celebrate;" Prof. Duncan C. Lee, of Cornell University, on "Jefferson and Education;" by State Senator Thomas F. Grady on "The Legislature;" by John N. Carlisle, of Watertown, chairman of the executive committee, on "The State Committee;" Elliott Danforth on "The Declaration of Independence," and Martin W. Littleton, of Brooklyn, on "Jefferson of Today."

A NEW REMEDY.
The old friends of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will be pleased to know that the manufacturers of that preparation have gotten out a new remedy called Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and that it is meeting with much success in the treatment of constipation, biliousness, sick headache, impaired digestion and like disorders. These Tablets are easier to take and more pleasant in effect than pills, then they not only move the bowels, but improve the appetite and correct any disorders of the stomach and liver. For sale by Richard Gibbons, druggist.

Avoid all drying inhalants and use that which cleanses and heals the membrane. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and cures Catarrh easily and pleasantly. Cold in the head vanishes quickly. Price 50 cents at druggists or by mail.

Catarrh caused difficulty in speaking and to a great extent loss of hearing. By the use of Ely's Cream Balm dropping of mucus has ceased, voice and hearing have greatly improved.—J. W. Davidson, Attorney at Law, Portsmouth, Ill.

Good for Children.
The pleasant to take and harmless One Minute Cough Cure gives immediate relief in all cases of Cough, Croup and La Grippe because it does not pass immediately into the stomach, but takes effect right at the seat of the inflammation. It draws out the inflammation, heals and soothes and cures permanently by enabling the lungs to contribute pure life-giving and life-sustaining oxygen to the blood and tissues. E. S. Leadbeater & Sons, Portsmouth, Ill.
